WITHHOLDING NOTICE

Payments from your IRA are subject to federal income tax withholding, unless you elect no withholding. You may change your withholding election at any time prior to your receipt of a payment. Your withholding election does not affect the amount of income tax you pay. You may incur penalties under the estimated tax rules if your withholding and estimated tax payments are insufficient. Withholding from IRA payments, when combined with other withholding, MAY relieve you from payment of estimated income taxes.

SUMMARY OF RULES AFFECTING THIS FORM

INTRODUCTION

Listed below are all of the payment options available to a beneficiary who has a separate account by September 30 of the calendar year after the IRA owner's death. A beneficiary has a separate account either by being the only beneficiary of the IRA on this date, or by the credit union segregating the beneficiary's portion of the IRA in a subaccount for the beneficiary by this date.

OPTIONS FOR IRA OWNER'S SPOUSE

Owner died before April 1 of 71½ year. If the IRA owner died before April 1 of his or her 71½ year (the calendar year in which the owner reaches age 71½), then the spouse has the following options:

1.a. Lump-sum payment now.

1.b. Lump-sum payment delayed until the month and year you write on the line at 1.b. The deadline for this payment is the later of December 31 of the fifth calendar year after the owner's death or December 31 of the year in which the owner would have attained age 70½.

2.a. Direct transfer to the spouse's own traditional IRA now.

2.b. Direct transfer to the spouse's own traditional IRA delayed until the month and year you write on the line at 2.b. The deadline for this direct transfer is the later of December 31 of the fifth calendar year after the owner's death or December 31 of the year in which the owner would have attained age 70½.

3. Direct transfer to an IRA in the deceased owner's name, for the benefit of this beneficiary.

4.b. Periodic payments over five years.

4.c, 4.d, or 4.g. Periodic payments starting in the year after the owner's death.

Delayed periodic payments. If the IRA owner died during his or her 68½ year or in an earlier year, the spouse can delay periodic payments until the year the owner would have reached age 70½. Write the year in which you want payments to begin on the line in the "Delayed periodic payments" section.

Owner died on or after April 1 of 71½ year. If the IRA owner died on or after April 1 of his or her 71½ year (the calendar year in which the owner reaches age 71½), then the spouse has the following options:

1.a. Lump-sum payment now.

2.a. Direct transfer to the spouse's own traditional IRA now.

3. Direct transfer to an IRA in the deceased owner's name, for the benefit of this beneficiary.

4.a, 4.c, 4.d, or 4.g. Periodic payments starting in the year after the owner's death.

QUALIFIED TRUST

Qualified trust for spouse. The direct transfer option is NOT available to a trust. A qualified trust has all of the other options available to the spouse if two conditions are met: (a) the trustee files the Qualified Trust Certification Form with the credit union by October 31 of the year after the IRA owner's death, and (b) the trust is for the sole benefit of the spouse (the trustee completes the sole benefit certification near the bottom of the Qualified Trust Certification Form). If only the first condition is met, then the trust has the options described in the next paragraph.

Other qualified trusts. Except as described in the previous paragraph, if the trustee files the Qualified Trust Certification Form with the credit union by October 31 of the year after the IRA owner's death, then the trustee can generally choose from those options that would have been available to a human beneficiary. The exception is that the trustee can choose option 4.e rather than option 4.d.

OPTIONS FOR NON-SPOUSE BENEFICIARIES

Owner died before April 1 of 71½ year. If the IRA owner died before April 1 of his or her 71½ year (the calendar year in which the owner reaches age 71½), then a human non-spouse beneficiary has the following options:

1.a. Lump-sum payment now.

1.b. Lump-sum payment delayed until the month and year you write on the line at 1.b. The deadline for this payment is December 31 of the fifth year after the owner's death.

3. Direct transfer to an IRA in the deceased owner's name, for the benefit of this beneficiary.

4.b. Periodic payments over five years.

4.c, 4.f, or 4.g. Periodic payments starting in the year after the owner's death.

Owner died on or after April 1 of 71½ year. If the IRA owner died on or after April 1 of his or her 71½ year, then a human non-spouse beneficiary has the following options:

1.a. Lump-sum payment now.

3. Direct transfer to an IRA in the deceased owner's name, for the benefit of this beneficiary.

4.a, 4.c, 4.f, or 4.g. Periodic payments starting in the year after the owner's death.

OPTIONS FOR NON-HUMAN BENEFICIARIES

Death before April 1 of 71½ year. If the IRA owner died before April 1 of his or her 71½ year (the calendar year in which the owner reaches age 71½), then a non-human beneficiary has the following options:

1.a. Lump-sum payment now.

1.b. Lump-sum payment delayed until the month and year you write on the line at 1.b. The deadline for this payment is December 31 of the fifth year after the owner's death.

3. Direct transfer to an IRA in the deceased owner's name, for the benefit of this beneficiary.

4.b. Periodic payments over five years.

4.a, 4.c, or 4.g. Periodic payments starting in the year after the owner's death.

Owner died on or after April 1 of 71½ year. If the IRA owner died on or after April 1 of his or her 71½ year, then a non-human beneficiary has the following options:

1.a. Lump-sum payment now.

3. Direct transfer to an IRA in the deceased owner's name, for the benefit of this beneficiary.

4.a, 4.c, or 4.g. Periodic payments starting in the year after the owner's death.

COMPUTATION OF PERIODIC PAYMENTS

Periodic payments under options 4.a through 4.f are computed by dividing the adjusted balance of your interest in the IRA at the end of the previous year by the applicable distribution period. The applicable distribution period used to compute your periodic payments is determined by the option you select (only some of these options are available to you):

Under 4.a, the distribution period for the year after death is the owner's life expectancy in the year of death, minus one year.

Under 4.b, the distribution period for the year after death is five years.

Under 4.c, you specify the distribution period on the blank line. This is the distribution period for the year after death unless the longest available life expectancy to compute required minimum distributions is shorter, in which case that life expectancy is used.

Under 4.e, the distribution period for the year after death is the life expectancy of the oldest beneficiary of the qualified trust that year.

Under 4.f, the distribution period for the year after death is your life expectancy that year.

For each of the above periodic payment options, one year is subtracted each year to compute the distribution period for subsequent years. For example, under option 4.b the distribution period for the second year after death is four years, and for the third year after death it is three years.

Under option 4.d (which is only available to the owner's spouse), the distribution period for each year in which payments are made is the spouse's life expectancy in that year.
